Description: The Doub's Mill complex is located near the village of Beaver Creek on Beaver Creek Road, east of Hagerstown. The buildings, dating from the 18th and 19th centuries, are clustered around the mill, which stands on the east bank of Beaver Creek. The settlement which consists for the most part of stone structures, is located at a point where Beaver Creek passes under Beaver Creek Road near its intersection with Cool Hollow Road. The complex is set among rolling hills with many limestone outcroppings. The complex consists of the mill itself, a shop, a late 18th century house, an early 19th century house, a late 19th or early 20th century dwelling, an early 19th century tenant house, and two late 18th or early 19th century farm complexes. The mill is a large

Significance: The Doub's Mill complex consists of a group of late 18th and early 19th century buildings clustered around the large stone grist mill. The significance of the group is twofold. First, the Doub's Mill and surrounding structures illustrate the importance of the grist milling industry to the 18th and 19th century economy of Washington County and the surrounding area. Numerous grist and saw mills were in use along the Antietam, Beaver, and other creeks in the county during the 18th century. A grist mill is depicted on the site of Doub's Mill on 1794, 1808, and 1859 maps of the area. The second significant aspect of the Doub's Mill district is the use of stone construction. All of the major structures included in the district are built of native limestone. The practice of building with local limestone
